New Private Investment Fund Rules and Guidance

The Private Investment Fund Rules and Guidance, 2025 (the “New PIF Rules”), which replaced the previous rules with effect from 19 May 2025, have introduced new categories of eligible investors and removed some previous regulatory requirements.

Under the New PIF Rules, there is no limit on the number of investors in a private investment fund (“PIF”), or the number of persons to whom PIFs may be offered (but they cannot be offered to the general public). There is also no requirement for a prospectus or disclosure document, an audit or a Guernsey manager under the New PIF Rules.

There are now two types of PIFs, Qualifying Investor PIFs (which replace and consolidate the old Route 1 and Route 2 PIFs) and Family PIFs (based on the former Route 3 PIF). Investors in Qualifying Investor PIFs must be able to evaluate the risks and strategy and bear the consequences of investing in the PIF, including the possibility of any loss arising from the investment. In addition, they must fall within specified categories of investor – including professional or experienced investors, or an investor which the Guernsey manager (if any) or administrator of the PIF has reasonably ascertained is able to evaluate the risks and strategy and bear the consequences of investing in the PIF, including the possibility of a total loss of their investment. Family PIFs are only open to investors who share a family relationship or are an employee of the family.

New Prospectus Rules and Guidance

Guernsey's prospectus rules regulate the issuance of a prospectus in relation to general securities and derivatives and registered collective investment schemes ("RCISs"). The rules do not apply to Private Investment Funds (PIFs) under Guernsey's Private Investment Fund Rules and Guidance, 2025. The Prospectus Rules and Guidance, 2025 (the "New Prospectus Rules") updated and replaced the previous iteration of the rules with effect from 1 July 2025. The New Prospectus Rules deliver broader exemptions and provide greater clarity on certain issues.

The New Prospectus Rules do not apply, inter alia, to offers of any general security and derivative falling within the scope of Schedule 1, Part 2 of The Protection of Investors (Bailiwick of Guernsey) Law, 2020 which are:

- promoted directly to "Professional Investors" (the definition of which is largely aligned with the definition in the New PIF Rules), or to up to 200 (increased from 50 under the previous rules) non-Professional Investors provided that such non-Professional Investors have sufficient information to enable them to reasonably evaluate the offer and are the only persons who may accept the offer (these exemptions are cumulative so an offer can be made to an unlimited number of Professional Investors and up to 200 non-Professional Investors);
- promoted directly to "qualified investors" as defined under the Regulation (EU) 2017/1129 of 14 June 2017, in circumstances where securities are offered to the public or admitted to trading on a regulated market;
- made in connection with transactions that are subject to, and undertaken in accordance with, the City Code on Takeovers and Mergers;
- made in relation to transactions which are the subject of a court sanctioned scheme, process or order, which is sanctioned by a court in the Bailiwick of Guernsey, Jersey, the United Kingdom or any such jurisdiction as the Guernsey Financial Services Commission (the "Commission") may approve on application; or
- where the minimum consideration required for the investment is £100,000 (or equivalent in another currency).

The New Prospectus Rules also do not apply to securities which are offered or allotted by way of distributions by a company (eg scrip dividend or rights issue) or in relation to employee incentive arrangements.

Although the New Prospectus Rules typically apply to RCISs, prospectuses for RCISs that are (or are to be) listed or traded on any London Stock Exchange market are exempted from the disclosure requirements in Part 2 (Information to be specified in the prospectus) of the New Prospectus Rules. Part 2 of the New Prospectus Rules does however include additional prospectus disclosure requirements for those RCISs to which Part 2 does apply.

The Commission's approach to cryptocurrency funds

On 9 June 2025, the Commission issued a statement affirming its openness to innovation and its commitment to fostering an enabling environment where good business can grow. The Commission acknowledged the evolving nature of crypto, noting that some cryptocurrencies are entering a more mature period. The Commission noted that Guernsey, as a long standing and experienced funds centre, considers that collective investment schemes can, when appropriately run, provide vehicles for a range of investors to invest indirectly in cryptocurrencies. This is subject to investors being well-informed of the risks and able to bear potential losses.

The statement confirms that the Commission is happy to discuss innovative structures or prospective applications. It also sets out factors that will be considered as part of the application process and the Commission's specific expectations for funds with crypto exposure.

The Commission's online application and authorisations portal

On 8 August 2025, the Commission completed the production and launch of its online applications and authorisations portal ("A&A Portal"). The A&A Portal is intended to streamline the applications and authorisations process through a secure, online platform, making it significantly easier for people to start financial services businesses in the Bailiwick of Guernsey. The A&A Portal can be accessed via the Commission's online services page.

Various investment, insurance and fiduciary applications can now be completed and submitted to the Commission through the A&A portal, including applications for standard and fast-track investment licences, insurance business licences, and fiduciary discretionary exemptions. Additional application types will be added over the coming months, after which the Commission intends to collaborate with industry to achieve full portal utilisation by the end of 2025.

Guernsey's expanding contribution to UK growth through international private capital spotlighted in new Frontier Economics report

A report titled "The Value of Guernsey's Funds Industry to the UK's Growth Ambitions" published by Frontier Economics, one of Europe's largest economic consultancies, highlighted that Guernsey-domiciled funds are channelling international capital into the UK at twice the rate of overall foreign direct investment. Shared on 1 September 2025 by Guernsey Finance, which commissioned the report, it highlights that £58 billion is currently invested in UK assets via Guernsey funds, reflecting annual growth of 7% since 2021. Notably, nearly 90% of these assets originate from non-UK investors, supporting key government growth pillars including investment, infrastructure and planning, innovation, and net zero. With investors from 63 countries each contributing over £50 million in 2024, Guernsey funds are projected to deliver almost £23 billion in additional private finance by 2029—surpassing the UK's National Wealth Fund target of £22 billion. Guernsey's streamlined regulatory environment and deep expertise continue to attract UK-based fund managers, while Guernsey-backed projects span all four UK nations across various key sectors including telecommunications, biodiversity and food-tech to fibre connectivity and student housing.
