Robert Dobbyn is a partner in Carey Olsen's trusts and private wealth group in Jersey.

Robert is an expert in private client structuring under Jersey law. In Particular, he advises on the establishment and ongoing administration of Jersey law trusts and foundations and complex private trust company arrangements. He also assists his colleagues in other teams with transactional corporate or finance work from a trusts perspective, and with semi-contentious or contentious trust matters. His clients include settlors and beneficiaries around the world as well as their trustees and onshore advisers, especially those based in London, Switzerland and the Middle East.

He has been ranked in the Chambers and Partners HNW, Global Europe and UK guides for Trusts in Jersey for the last several years running and also in the Legal 500 Private Client, Trusts and Tax guides for Jersey. In addition, he contributes regularly to industry journals and publications dealing with matters concerning trusts, foundations and succession law.

Career

Robert started his legal career at Withers LLP in London, where he trained and qualified as an English private client solicitor. He moved to Jersey in 2011, spending five years in Ogier's trusts practice and then moving to Walkers where he established and headed up its trusts and private capital offering in Jersey.

Robert is a Jersey advocate and non-practicing English solicitor. He is a member of the main committee and technical sub-committee of STEP's Jersey Brand and sits on the government trusts law and foundations law working parties.
